

Fruits & Vegetables Game

Hold up each piece of Fridge Smart and ask guests to write down one fruit or veggie they could see themselves putting into that size. As the story is read, each time guests hear the name of their fruit/vegetable read, they call out "I Love Tupperware" and select a game prize. When all the prizes are taken, they take prizes from each other.

"The other day, I went to the produce market and I really saw some strange things happening. I was looking at ripe, juice TOMATOES when I heard this unusual voice call to me, "please don't squeeze me, I'll bruise." I stopped what I was doing in dismay. As I turned around I heard, "LETTUCE go home with you." What a PLUM PEACHY day it was to shop. The LIMES were dancing to the CILANTRO samba! The music was driving me BANANAS, but I continued to search for the things I had on my list, including BROCCOLI, SPINACH and GREEN ONIONS. The AVOCADO said to the LEMON, "Let's PEAR off!" The ORANGE invited the APPLE to go to the fruitbowl game with him. The CELERY was stalking around the market and was upsetting the ONION who sat and cried while a bunch of GRAPES sang a catchy tune! The WATERMELON thought this was so funny he split his sides laughing and had to be replaced by a CANTELOPE. Things really began to get out of hand. The SALAD hollered, "Go CAULIFLOWER to come join the fun!" The CUCUMBER burped and turned BEET red when everyone stopped the nonsense to look at him. At this point, the market man came in and swept up the entire mess with a CARROT-topped broom. I'm glad I could find the KIWI's to my car to make a quick exit along CHERRY and STRAWBERRY drive home!"

Once upon a time I LEFT my fears behind and decided to head RIGHT towards my dreams. The first step I took in the RIGHT direction was to share my dreams with others. When I spoke of my dreams it LEFT some people doubting me and feeling I was not in my right mind. But others thought I was RIGHT on track. They too LEFT their fears behind them and joined me. The more people that I found who were heading RIGHT in the same direction as me, the easier the path was to follow. When I felt like parking it RIGHT in the middle of the road there was always someone RIGHT there beside me to help me get back on track. We found that persistence, teamwork, determination and belief were just the RIGHT ingredients for reaching our dreams. As we encountered speed bumps we jumped RIGHT over them, together. As we came across doubt and disappointment we LEFT them RIGHT as they were, side roads we were not willing to go down. Seeing things in the RIGHT light LEFT us feeling confident and strong. RIGHT now is the RIGHT time to do the RIGHT thing. May your belief in your dreams be strong enough to head you in the RIGHT direction. May you surround yourself with the RIGHT people to help you on your journey and may you be LEFT with confidence and courage. And when you are out of gas, may you look RIGHT beside you and know that your team is there to steer you once again in the RIGHT direction. RIGHT her....RIGHT now... that is all there is LEFT to say.
